

ROCKAWAY BLUFF PRESERVE IS NOW PROTECTED (AND THE LOCALS ARE THRILLED).

Thank you, Bainbridge Island! It takes a caring, connected community to save an ecological treasure like Rockaway Bluff Preserve, and together we've done just that.

This expansive, 35-acre property, perched above Rockaway Beach and visible from the ferry, is home to an abundance of wild creatures—from foxes to flying squirrels to highly vulnerable bird species—and offers a critical link between the Eagle Harbor and Blakely Harbor ecosystems.

With the help of more than 1,000 conservation-minded supporters the Land Trust raised the funds needed to purchase the property and ensure its protection and stewardship for generations to come.

Watch for updates on Rockaway Bluff tours* and continue to stand with us as we work to protect more of the Island's vital natural places. **Rockaway Bluff Preserve is not yet open to the public.*
